New Business

Sophomore Literature:

There is a concern among several faculty members about the possible elimination of Literature courses at the sophomore level. This concern has been sent to Nick and the intellectual freedom committee. Brenda Khil hosted a meeting to discuss the rationale for this possible change. Faculty members are concerned that this change will impact the college and the educational experience of students in a negative manner. Others were concerned that the push to increase graduation rates may possibly reduce the rigor of our coursework. A point was made that other courses can also offer critical thinking. The committee is open to inviting Brenda Khil or Wendy Gunderson to visit the Faculty Council meeting to discuss concerns. Due to the late date of this meeting, Kat Balch encourages attendees to submit individual concerns to Brenda Khil and to forward concerns to Faculty Council through the FC@collin.edu address. The group discussed creating an exploratory committee to follow this topic and to discuss and examine the reduction of Sophomore requirements, but they decided to wait until Spring when more information would be provided.

Virtual College:

Paula- The new follows are designed to help identify students who are getting their courses all online. This is possibly for an examination for all online (100% online) programs.
